THE PEOPLE TO THE RESCUE.

THE NEWS as is well known has waged unrelenting war on the effort of the politicians to decoy the Democratic party into a campaign in which the spoils of office was to be made the only issue before the people. It has pointed out the successful attempt by the enemies of tariff reform in 1888 to degrade the party with defeat, in order to fasten upon its honored leaders at that time responsibility. It has endeavored to show and has shown, that David B. Hill if not the leader of the faction in the party which would retire from the campaign the principle issue—the issue of Democratic principles, if you please, and substitute therefor the question of spoils of office, he has been a willing tool of the beneficiaries of protection and had permitted his personal popularity in New York state to be used as a lever to prize the party from its position on economic questions and dump it into the maelstrom of political strife for office only. THE NEWS is pleased to know that the people all over this broad land have awakened to the danger that threatens the Democratic party and are taking steps to resist the unholy influences that would disgrace it. As this movement progresses the name of Grover Cleveland inevitably appears as the representative of the principle upon which the party must make its fight and despite the strong opposition to him in his own state the signs of the times as presented to us by the actions of Democrats in other states point to him as the leader for the coming battle. Indeed it is the character of the opposition in New York that goads the Democratic masses to the support of the man who, because of his refusal to place spoils above principle has been the object of attack from the political place hunters. The idea is fast growing that Cleveland can win without New York if he should lose that state and even if he cannot, that if known will, perhaps, not prevent his nomination.

The indications at present point to a spontaneous uprising of the people demanding Cleveland, just as the people of Texas rose up in their might and demanded the election of Roger Q. Mills to the senate. Of course the politicians will object to their freedom of action being "abridged" by the people. They will doubtless take it as an indignity heaped upon them if the people "hamper" them by instructions. But the Democratic masses have a way of expressing their own free will and it augurs well for the party of the people that they, at this crisis, evince a determination to stand by their principles and preserve the party eschewer in its pristine purity. It looks now as though it would be Cleveland. If not Cleveland it will be a Western man.

If the Tyler Democrat Reporter's report of Duncan's speech is correct he tried to quote Abraham Lincoln, and made the following botch of it: "Some times you can deceive some people, and some times you can deceive all people, but there never was a time when you can deceive all people all the time." And the band played Dixie.

Judging from the universal joy over Mills' election to the senate, there is no Democrat living more generally admired than he. THE NEWS ventures the assertion that if Mills lived north of the Mason and Dixon line he would be the next president of the United States.

The color of the Hogg badge will be blue. That is in accordance with their feelings and the color will deepen as the campaign progresses.

THE NEWS has just found out what made the orators at the Chilton obsequies so mad: The band played Dixie.

A FEW CLIPPINGS.

The Fort Worth Mail, after carrying Isaac P. Gray of Indiana at its masthead for months drops him and comes out for Cleveland. It says:

Palmer of Illinois, Gray of Indian and Boies of Iowa have a great many admirers, but the Democratic party or any other party, as far as that is concerned, just as well try to hang out the ocean on a grapevine to dry as to elect a western man to the presidency. Grover Cleveland is the most available man in the Democratic party, and he is coming to the front as rapidly as decency and propriety will permit.

The Danison Herald says: "Judge Aldridge's great speech is to be printed and circulated broadcast. It is a great speech and ought to be circulated at the public expense instead of the Hogg message."

The Gazette is still troubled over the increasing popularity of Cleveland and correspondingly increased popularity of Hill, and fires this at those who believe that Cleveland is the only Democrat who can win:

"It is a great crime in this country not to believe that one man is its only hope."

"We can't nominate an idea," dear Gazette.

The Atlanta Journal hath no mercy on the Georgia contingent of the Tammany crowd. It says:

"The Hill boomer bloweth where he listeth, but nobody listeth to his blowing."

There is some hope of getting an Australian ballot law passed by the present session of the legislature, notwithstanding the doubt existing in some quarters as to such a law being incorporated in the governors call. The governors message did not contain any allusion to the Australian ballot, but one of the first subjects mentioned was the passage of laws putting in operation the recent amendments to the constitution one of them being that providing for registration of voters in cities of over 10,000 inhabitants and the Australian ballot would be so near akin to such provision that there is no danger of constitutional fracture. The passage of such a law as would secure an absolute secret ballot in the cities would be a long stride in the way of pure elections.
